

COOPER RIVER INDIVISIBLE

{{FirstName or 'Friend'}} ,

Adam here. The newsletter isn't always written by me, but this week, I wanted to write this one personally. If you attended our December meeting, you've already heard me say this in person. If not: I am retiring from my post as CRI's Chapter Organizer and turning the reins over to new leaders from our Strategy Team.

With Mikie Sherrill's win in November and the explosive growth CRI has seen since reforming in August '24, this is an opportune time for me to step away. I have nothing but the utmost respect for the skills, talents, and energy of the folks in the Strategy Team. I know they'll carry CRI to even greater heights.

That picture above is from CRI's very first public meeting in February 2017. I was just a random person in a crowd of hundreds. (You can actually see me in the picture, in the back in a gray hoodie). I know some of you out there were at that meeting too, and we've been fighting side by side for eight years now.

I'm not leaving this fight. I will still be organizing union members with my day job, and I have some other projects in the political world I want to tackle. But for this week's newsletter, I wanted to thank you for being part of this movement with me. It has been an honor to be one of you.

As I leave, let me leave you with one last thought: I believe in my bones that the tide is turning. Trump will hurt millions of people before he leaves, but he will leave. His authoritarian project is not working. His power is not consolidating; it is unraveling. We will get out of this with some semblance of our democracy intact. Building a new democracy, a better one than what we had before, will take the rest of our lives, but we will get the chance to do it. Keep fighting! We are winning.
